Dear Sirs,

The current settlement against Microsoft is totally unacceptable to me as both an everyday computer user and a tax-payer. I would like to see stronger measures brought against Microsoft with strict and close supervision of the company to verify that it is complying with the mandates brought against it. Please do not allow Microsoft to get off easy by performing philanthropic acts that will only extend its monopoly by distributing its products for free to schools.

I urge you to reconstruct the settlement against Microsoft in such a way that it is fair and foolproof, without loop-holes and lack of foresight.

Thank You,
John Bittenbender
